

Paul Mondragón

President, Bank of America New Mexico

Paul Mondragón is the President of Bank of America (BofA) in New Mexico. He is also a Senior Vice President and Commercial Banking Relationship Manager for BofA.

In his capacity as a Relationship Manager, his responsibilities include leading a team of specialists focused on understanding each client's unique needs to deliver strategic financial guidance and solutions. Paul's mission is to help local companies thrive by achieving their business goals, no matter how simple or how complex.

Bringing over 25 years of experience, Paul joined Bank of America in 2016. During his banking career, Paul has served mid-sized companies throughout New Mexico to support their commercial banking needs.

To help create a more sustainable future for the companies and communities he serves, Paul volunteers with not-for-profit organizations focused on ending hunger, most recently with Feeding America and Roadrunner Food Bank. He also serves as a mentor for teammates across Bank of America as a member and leader in the "Hispanic/Latino Organization for Leadership and Advancement" (HOLA) Employee Network. In addition, he serves on the boards of the Albuquerque Hispano Chamber of Commerce, Albuquerque Economic Development, the New Mexico Banker's Association, and the Albuquerque Museum. Paul is also currently working with some former teammates to establish the New Mexico State University Rugby Alumni Association.

Originally from Albuquerque, Paul graduated with a BA in Economics from New Mexico State University with a Minor in Government. He resides in Albuquerque with his wife and three children and is an avid soccer fan.
