

Alex Flores

Supervisory Assistant United States Attorney at the U.S. Department of Justice

Alex combines the disciplined leadership of a Marine officer with the analytical rigor of a seasoned federal prosecutor. Serving as a Supervisory Assistant United States Attorney in Albuquerque, his work transcends traditional legal boundaries, focusing on the complexities of federal cases in Indian Country and fostering unprecedented cooperation with Indigenous communities.

His prior role as a Complex Trial Prosecutor for the U.S. Marine Corps honed his expertise in navigating high-stakes environments, mentoring legal professionals, and spearheading innovative policy solutions. Alex's multifaceted career is underpinned by a passion for justice and an unwavering commitment to public service, leveraging his deep understanding of socio-political dynamics to lead cross-functional teams and drive consensus among diverse stakeholders. His experiences, from clerking for the New Mexico Supreme Court to contributing to national policy discussions, reflect a career dedicated to excellence, integrity, and the pursuit of justice.